The chairman of the committee is R. R. Wise, and not George D. LaBar as was first reported. The secretary is A. L. Hoffman.

No Crowds in Streets

The public was warned not to congregate in crowds on street corners or other places in streets or on sidewalks, because in case of trouble innocent people may be injured.

U. S. Marshal's Statement

The statement of United States Marshal Edward Rustad demanding that law and order be preserved at all costs in Brainerd was read and noted by the committee.

Deputy Marshal Reports

Deputy United States Marshal Leo Mayer, who has charge of deputy United States marshals here, reported he now had eight deputies and he was asked to get sixteen more.

Detectives, Plain Clothes Men

The committee discussed the matter of employing detectives or plain clothes men to assist in the preservation of peace and to ferret out perpetrators of disturbances.

Sheriff Reports

Sheriff Claus A. Theorin reported he had 12 deputy sheriffs. The list of these was published in the Brainerd Dispatch Friday evening. He was asked by the committee to appoint 24 more. He was cautioned to get only such men as are not in any way interested in the railway.

Mayor Reports

Mayor F. E. Little reported to the committee and said he had seven men on the police force. A discussion followed as to their actions and their sympathies in this strike.

The mayor was asked to add seven men to the present force and was cautioned, like the sheriff, to get men not in any way connected with the railway.

One Paragraph Omitted

By an oversight in proof reading the Dispatch omitted one paragraph of the resolutions adopted by the Brainerd business and professional men at their meeting Thursday evening. This was in the body of the resolution and read:

"Be It Further Resolved, That we call upon the sheriff, county of Crow Wing, state of Minnesota, demanding him to use every possible advantage his office gives him, to assist in maintaining order."

Committee Meetings Fruitless

At the same business and professional men's meeting Thursday evening, the committee of twelve named to meet with twelve of the Shop Crafts reported their inability to effect any settlement of the strike locally.

Special Meeting City Council

There was a special meeting of the city council this morning at 10 o'clock in Mayor Little's office, to take up the matter of increasing the city police force to cope with the unusual conditions now existing.

This meeting, it is understood, was the outgrowth of a meeting of the mayor with the special safety committee appointed at the Thursday session of the business and professional men, who held a conference concerning the policing of the city.

The result of the council meeting this morning was a motion, duly passed, leaving the matter of policing the city in the hands of the Mayor, with power to act, and to hire more police as he deems necessary and occasion demands.

MRS. ELEANOR MILLS, HUNTED DOWN
WITH FLASHLIGHT, SHOT AND KILLED

(By United Press.)
New Brunswick, N. J., Oct. 28.—Mrs. Eleanor Mills was hunted down with a flash light as she crouched terrified in the thick brush near the spot where Rev. Wheeler Hall was slain and was finally found and killed, according to an eye witness story of the double murder which Prosecutor Mott declares he has corroborated.

A dramatic story in terrible detail of how the woman in the gray coat helped her male accomplice to drag forth the screaming begging victim and stood by while she was shot down and her throat cut has been added to Mrs. Jane Gibson's version of the killings.

Still further details of Mrs. Gibson's story were that the woman in the gray coat returned to the body of the rector and knelt weeping by his side at 1 o'clock in the morning.

After hearing Mrs. Gibson's complete story, Mott said he had prepared an airtight accusation to present to the grand jury of Somerset county in a day or two.

Henry Stevens, brother of Mrs. Francis M. Hall, the pastor's widow, has come forward with a complete alibi to prove he was not near New Brunswick the night of the crime. He has given the names and stories of eight reliable witnesses who will testify he says that he was at Lavalette, miles from the scene of the crime, at the time it was said to have been committed.

Mrs. Gibson now says she heard the woman accuser of Mrs. Mills and Dr. Hall say: "How do you explain these notes?"

This was taken to refer to the love result of liquor, and it was decided that the mayor should be given greater power against those selling intoxicants. Therefore, the council will hold a special meeting on Monday evening for the purpose of passing an ordinance which would strengthen the mayor's power in this work.

Four Locomotives to Minneapolis

Four large locomotives were boarded up at the local N. P. shops this morning, and prepared for shipment to Minneapolis, where they will be repaired under the new contract the Northern Pacific has with the Minneapolis Steel & Machinery Co.

The engine numbers are 1660, 2316, 2447 and 2371. The first named is of the "W" class, the other three belong to the "T" type.

Sheriff's Statement

Sheriff Theorin in a statement to the Dispatch said the railway company in July wanted six of their guards made deputy sheriffs and on Monday wanted ten guards made deputy sheriffs. The sheriff claims he did not so appoint them because he did not know the men, and that upon suggesting he would appoint men of the county for duty inside the fence, that Special Agent Ryan did not want such men.

STATE OWNED MINES
YIELD MUCH REVENUE

(By United Press.)

St. Paul, Oct. 28.—State owned mines yielded the largest amount of royalties during the last three months in the history of Minnesota. According to John P. Funk, mineral land clerk in the state auditor's office, $854,762 were paid to Henry Rines, state treasurer, today. This is on the basis of 25c a ton royalty.

The total production of iron ore in the state owned mines in the last three months, according to Mr. Funk, was 5,064,304 tons. The mining operations are expected to continue until December 1. Last year the production in state owned mines was only 295,000 tons for the entire year. Total production last year from private and state owned mines was 17,000,000 tons. The private owned mines pay no royalties, it was pointed out.

letters exchanged by the slain couple found scattered about their bodies. Immediately, Mrs. Gibson is understood to have stated, there came a shot and Dr. Hall fell. Mrs. Mills screamed and the woman in gray screamed. One of them called out: "Oh! Please, please, please don't."

The other one gasped so terribly that her voice rose to a shriek: "Oh, (a man's name)." Then, according to the story Mrs. Mills ran. While the woman and man faced each other across the fallen body of the rector, the little choir singer stumbled and tottered off into the blackness of the night. The slayer could not see her, but could hear her and followed. She was seized begging pitiously and dragged to the tree near which the pastor's body lay. Her wrists were lacerated in the struggle. Her moans and shrieks for mercy went unheeded. She was held and then shot down, then her throat was cut.

The woman in gray, according to Mrs. Gibson, returned later and knelt weeping by the body of Dr. Hall. She arranged the minister's clothing, closed his eyes and put his hat over his face.

And Now Mrs. Gibson Disappears

New Brunswick, Oct. 28.—Mrs. Jane Gibson, eye witness in the Hall-Mills murder case, has disappeared from her home, it became known today.

Prosecutor Mott would not say whether she had left with or without his consent. Mrs. Gibson is believed to have gone into hiding as a result of threats made against her by persons with an interest in the case.

Washington, Oct. 28.—Texas will see the hardest campaign wind up of any state in the union as a result of the court decisions which have barred from the ballot the name of George E. B. Peddy, and let Earle Mayfield's name go on.

Both of the candidates were for the senate to succeed Senator Culbertson. Mayfield is a democrat; Peddy an independent republican with the active backing of President Harding.

Peddy's name was kept off the ballot by court action based on the fact that he was nominated at a primary. Mayfield's name goes on because the state supreme court overruled a lower tribunal which had decided Mayfield should be kept off. Mayfield was attacked on various grounds, one being that his campaign funds were in excess of the amount permitted.

The fight on Mayfield is really a fight on the Ku Klux Klan. Peddy was put forward by anti-Klan denominations in concert with what republicans Texas had.

GRANDFATHER CHARGED WITH AWFUL CRIME

(By United Press.)
Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Oct. 28.—Accusing her grandfather, Joseph Barton, aged 60 years, as being the father of a child born to her last June, Margaret Hill, 16, late yesterday appeared in police court here and demanded that action be brought against him.

Some time ago when Miss Hill was brought to a hospital, where it is alleged her baby was born, she said the father of the baby was "a cousin of mine." She refused to name the cousin, and said he was "not in town."

Yesterday, however, Miss Hill repudiated her first story and charged her grandfather with being the child's parent. She claimed she had been warned by her grandfather not to tell of his relations with her, and said she had been instructed by him to blame "anybody else she chose."

"I couldn't think of anyone to blame, so I just said it was a cousin," the girl told Police Judge McMahon. Joseph Barton, the grandfather, is a prominent farmer of this section. At the hearing yesterday he was not permitted to talk, but will be given an opportunity to testify next Friday. During the hearing yesterday Barton maintained the attitude of the girl's story was false.

WOMAN KILLS MONTANA
PASTOR AND HERSELF

Havre, Mont., Oct. 28.—Rev. Leonard Jacob Christler, rector of St. Mark's church of the Incarnation at Havre, one of the best known pastors in Montana and widely known in the west as the "bishop of all outdoors" was shot and killed in his home at Havre at 1 a. m. by Mrs. Margaret Carleton, wife of former Judge Frank F. Carleton of the district court of Hill county, who then committed suicide.

(By United Press)

How Tragedy Occurred
Havre, Mont., Oct. 28.—Mrs. Leonard Jacob Christler today told the story of how her husband, Episcopal rector, known as the "Bishop of all outdoors," was shot and killed by Mrs. Margaret Carleton, who then committed suicide.

The three of them—the minister, Mrs. Christler and Mrs. Carleton, who was the wife of a former district judge—were sitting together in the parlor of the rectory early Friday morning. Mrs. Christler declared she had a premonition of trouble, and that she watched Mrs. Carleton closely during the visit. Finally the latter announced she would start for home. Mrs. Christler's attention was distracted for the moment as she prepared to show the guest the door. Then she declared the woman turned and without warning shot the minister through the heart. Then Mrs. Christler said she stepped back a pace and shot herself.

The weapon with which the shooting was done was a large, heavily calibered revolver. Mrs. Carleton was known to possess only a small pistol and it has not yet been ascertained where she obtained the big revolver.

Mrs. Christler in her statement to the police declared she believed that Mrs. Carleton was temporarily insane due to illness.

She suffered from loneliness as her husband was in California, and her daughter in Butte, according to Mrs. Christler. She also brooded over family troubles which she carried to Christler as her pastor.

Employees at the hotel where Mrs. Carleton lived said she had acted queerly for several days and was hysterical a number of times.

WOMAN KILLS MONTANA PASTOR AND HERSELF

Havre, Mont., Oct. 28.—Rev. Leonard Jacob Christler, rector of St. Mark's church of the Incarnation at Havre, one of the best known pastors in Montana and widely known in the west as the "bishop of all outdoors" was shot and killed in his home at Havre at 1 a. m. by Mrs. Margaret Carleton, wife of former Judge Frank F. Carleton of the district court of Hill county, who then committed suicide.

(By United Press.) How Tragedy Occurred

Havre, Mont., Oct. 28.—Mrs. Leonard Jacob Christler today told the story of how her husband, Episcopal rector, known as the "Bishop of all outdoors," was shot and killed by Mrs. Margaret Carleton, who then committed suicide.

The three of them—the minister, Mrs. Christler and Mrs. Carleton, who was the wife of a former district judge—were sitting together in the parlor of the rectory early Friday morning. Mrs. Christler declared she had a premonition of trouble, and that she watched Mrs. Carleton closely during the visit. Finally the latter announced she would start for home. Mrs. Christler's attention was distracted for the moment as she prepared to show the guest the door. Then she declared the woman turned and without warning shot the minister through the heart. Then Mrs. Christler said she stepped back a pace and shot herself.

The weapon with which the shooting was done was a large, heavily calibered revolver. Mrs. Carleton was known to possess only a small pistol and it has not yet been ascertained where she obtained the big revolver.

Mrs. Christler in her statement to the police declared she believed that Mrs. Carleton was temporarily insane due to illness.

She suffered from loneliness as her husband was in California, and her daughter in Butte, according to Mrs. Christler. She also brooded over family troubles which she carried to Christler as her pastor.

Employees at the hotel where Mrs. Carleton lived said she had acted queerly for several days and was hysterical a number of times.

OFFICIALLY DEAD AND BURIED, MAN VISITS HIS WIDOW

JACOB JOHN KARPEN PROVES TO HER HE DID NOT DROWN IN RIVER

CORONER NOT CONVINCED UNTIL "DEAD MAN" SHAKES HANDS WITH HIM

(By United Press.) Minneapolis, Oct. 28.—Jacob John Karpen, officially declared dead and buried, has come back home to prove he is alive. He has just visited his "widow" who last August identified and buried a body taken from the Mississippi river as that of her husband.

Karpen's return is on the eve of a divorce proceeding. Mrs. Karpen told newspaper reporters. She said her husband deserted her and told her he did not wish to care for his family any longer. They have two children. Karpen left immediately and said he would not contest a divorce.

Officially, however, Karpen remains dead.

"I will not alter the official records until Karpen walks into my office and shakes hands with me", Coroner Seashore announced.

GRANDFATHER CHARGED WITH AWFUL CRIME

(By United Press.) Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Oct. 28.—Accusing her grandfather, Joseph Barton, aged 60 years, as being the father of a child born to her last June, Margaret Hill, 16, late yesterday appeared in police court here and demanded that action be brought against him.

Some time ago when Miss Hill was brought to a hospital, where it is alleged her baby was born, she said the father of the baby was "a cousin of mine." She refused to name the cousin, and said he was "not in town."

Yesterday, however, Miss Hill repudiated her first story and charged her grandfather with being the child's parent. She claimed she had been warned by her grandfather not to tell of his relations with her, and said she had been instructed by him to blame "anybody else she chose."

"I couldn't think of anyone to blame, so I just said it was a cousin," the girl told Police Judge McMahon. Joseph Barton, the grandfather, is a prominent farmer of this section. At the hearing yesterday he was not permitted to talk, but will be given an opportunity to testify next Friday.

During the hearing yesterday Barton maintained the attitude of the girl's story was false.

Ashamed of the Old Folks.

A story is going the rounds of prep schools and colleges which has enough truth in it to make it useful whether the words were ever spoken or not. It is funny and it is sad. A lad—pupil in a great fitting school—is represented as saying to his parents: "You make it very difficult for me with my school-mates. Father is a prosperous business man and mother comes to see me in a D-car." (naming one of the inexpensive makes). The idea conveyed is that in the gilded circle in which the boy moves, the merely industrious, good-citizen type of dad is rather bad form; he should be a whirlwind of conspicuousness of some sort—literature, perhaps, or grafting finance of the official class, it is immaterial.—New Haven Journal-Courier.

WEeping LAKE COMO
NEEDS A PLUMBERSOMEBODY'S STEALING IT OR
BOTTOM'S FALLING OUT,
OFFICIALS DECIDE

Minneapolis, Oct. 28.—Lake Como needs a plumber.
 It's leaking and St. Paul officials don't know what to do about it. After investigation by City Engineer Oscar Claussen, J. W. Kelsey, superintendent of the water bureau; M. S. Grytbak, bridge engineer; J. W. Routh, consulting engineer of the bureau of municipal research; Commissioner H. C. Wenzel and Earl Finney, superintendent of parks, it was decided that either someone is stealing the lake or the bottom has fallen out.

The committee stood on the lake shore today with a map of the original dimensions in hand. Where lake used to be "there ain't none now." It was suggested that someone was in a plot to ruin St. Paul's scenic beauty. Field glasses were leveled along the shores to detect waterleppers.

Finding nothing, the committee decided to look at the bottom of the lake. It is believed the flooring is defective and that the lake is dripping through on the apartment below.

After the water freezes and it can be determined better if someone is stealing the lake—it being easier to detect missing ice—soundings may be made to find a possible leak on the bottom. Repairs of concrete or clay will be made if this is the case, the committee decided.

The lineup of the Northeasters was: Houle, Mayo, Murphy, Hively, Marshall, Schwendeman, Torkelson, Gartner, Montgomery, Daniels and Wolcott. The Northside team consisted of Ryan, Opsahl, Fisher, Putz, Brotherson, Orth, Brown, Swanson, Olson, Kampman, and McMeers.

Gartner and Schwendeman did good tackling. Marshall really did more than his share, for he made a gain of 25 yards in one run. Torkelson, quarterback of the Northeast team seems to have been the brains of his eleven, and proved a very clever and efficient general. Olson was the quarterback for the Northsiders.

The victors are carrying their chests well thrown out and are contemplating a challenge to the first teams of the Universities of Minnesota, Wisconsin and Illinois, to be played on the local field, winners to take all.

OLD FRIENDS MEET FIRST TIME IN 62 YEARS

Sixty-two years is a life time for many people, but is a brief span for "Uncle John" Daubney, 103 years old and Minnesota's pioneer citizen. He met N. D. Lammers, of Taylors Falls, Minn., for the first time in 62 years, and they had a great old time. Uncle John, at the right, used to hold his friend on his knee, and laughed about it. Mr. Lammers at the left, was one of the numerous friends who attended Uncle John's 103rd birthday, recently observed.

Northeast Brainerd Hopefuls Defeat North Side In Hot Gridiron Contest

The big decisive football games are not all played on college or university gridirons. For example, one of the biggest events of the year was staged at the Koorring grounds Saturday morning, when the youngsters of Northeast Brainerd defeated those of the North Side by a score of 24 to 0.

The few who were privileged to witness the game say it was one of the snappiest and scrappiest games ever played in Northern Minnesota. The hero of the battle seems to be

The lineup of the Northeasters was: Houle, Mayo, Murphy, Hively, Marshall, Schwendeman, Torkelson, Gartner, Montgomery, Daniels and Wolcott. The Northside team consisted of Ryan, Opsahl, Fisher, Putz, Brotherson, Orth, Brown, Swanson, Olson, Kampman, and McMeers.

Gartner and Schwendeman did good tackling. Marshall really did more than his share, for he made a gain of 25 yards in one run. Torkelson, quarterback of the Northeast team seems to have been the brains of his eleven, and proved a very clever and efficient general. Olson was the quarterback for the Northsiders.

The victors are carrying their chests well thrown out and are contemplating a challenge to the first teams of the Universities of Minnesota, Wisconsin and Illinois, to be played on the local field, winners to take all.

APPRECIATE KIND BEMIDJI WORDS

Bemidji Daily Pioneer of Oct. 24 Carries Laudatory Article on State Sunday School Meeting

BRAINERD IS GIVEN PRAISE

"Brainerd Entertained State Convention Before and Knew How to Do It", Said Delegates

The Bemidji Daily Pioneer of October 24 gives vice to these words of appreciation regarding the big Sunday school convention held in Brainerd and the hospitality of the city:

The 64th annual convention of the Minnesota Sunday school association closed at Brainerd with the evening session Sunday, it having convened there Thursday of last week.

Over 300 registered delegates from various parts of the state were well taken care of by the Brainerd people in a most hospitable manner. In spite of the fact that many of them were unable to open their homes because of conditions resulting from the railroad strike, "Brainerd has entertained the state convention before and knew how to do things," was one comment.

Several speakers of note were on the program, among whom were, President D. Webster Kurtz, McPherson college, McPherson, Kans., Dr. H. H. Swearingen, St. Paul; Dr. Bert D. Smith, Chicago; Mrs. Isaac Sewell, Topeka, Kas.; John Engel, Lansing, Mich.; Preston G. Orwig, Chicago; J. Kirkwood Craig, Minneapolis; Hayden Straight, St. Paul.

A series of addresses on "The Fundamental Doctrines of Faith" at the general sessions by Pres. D. Webster Kurtz of McPherson, Kas., were very much worth while, and the fact that he was appreciated was evidenced by the manner in which he was received. He was greeted by a capacity house at each appearance. He is a convincing, fluent and thrilling speaker, master of his subject, and held the rapt attention of his hearers. His address, "The Symphony of Life," booked for the Sunday afternoon service, could not be given, owing to the fact that he had to take the afternoon bus for the Twin Cities to make connections for the south, he having been called away, and many were the expressions of regret were heard because of his inability to speak.

After each afternoon general session, divisional conferences were held at the different churches where those working in different departments of the Sunday school could get help and ideas for bettering their departments and for their special needs. These were in charge of trained workers and were very helpful. The cradle roll, Beginners, Primary, Junior, Young Peoples' and Adult Administrative divisions all being handled by able instructors.

Each general session opened with an inspiring song service led by the musical director, Prof. H. A. Gribenow, instructor of music of the South high school, Minneapolis. He possesses a wonderfully sweet tenor voice and gave several very enjoyable solos. He also directed a large chorus which favored the audience with several special numbers. The "Hymnal for American Youth" was used and many Sunday schools gave large orders for a supply for their schools, it being very well liked.

Other special features of the convention were the discussion of the "Vacation School Institutes" and "Week Day Religious Instruction," and addresses by other recognized authorities and practical people who made the three days so beneficial. The state officers of last year were re-elected for another year.

Mrs. H. A. Brideman as country secretary, and Mrs. Fred Trimble and Mrs. N. Harvey attended as delegates from the local Methodist Sunday school.

OUR DEBT TO THE CAVE MAN
Tribute to Him by William James One of Most Eloquent Passages in Literature.

One of the most eloquent passages in American literature is William James' tribute to the cave man, says the Detroit News. He wrote: "Bone of our bone and flesh of our flesh, are these half-brutish prehistoric brothers. Girded about with the immense darkness of this mysterious universe even as we are, they were born, and died, suffered and struggled. Given over to fearful crime and passion, plunged in the blackest ignorance, preyed upon by hideous and grotesque delusions yet steadfastly serving the profoundest of ideals in their fixed faith that existence in any form is better than non-existence, they ever rescued triumphantly from the jaws of ever-imminent destruction the torch of life which, thanks to them, now lights the world for us."

"How small indeed seem individual distinctions when we look back on those overwhelming numbers of human beings panting and straining under the pressure of that vital want. And how insensational in the eyes of God must be the small surplus of the individual's merit, swamped as it is in the vast ocean of the common merit of mankind dumbly and undauntingly doing the fundamental duty and living the heroic life. We grow humble and reverent as we contemplate the prodigious spectacle."

OMENS OF ANCIENT ROMANS
How They Observed Birds and Cut Up Animals to Find Out "the Signs."

The ancient Romans believed in signs. When they wanted to know whether to do this thing or that, they tried to find out "the signs." Some persons looked at birds flying over

FOUR STARS OF THE GRIDIRON AND THEIR PROUD FATHER

To be the father of a football hero is in itself something to be proud of, but when one has the exceptional fortune of having four football heroes in the family, then truly have the Gods given plenty. head. Others cut up animals, to see what "signs" were inside.

Perhaps most interesting of all was the custom of keeping certain chickens and calling them sacred. If someone wanted to know if a plan would succeed, he tried to feed the chickens. If they ate heartily, it was a good sign. If they refused to eat, the plan was probably given up.

When a Roman died, food and drink were placed beside his body in the tomb. Animals were sacrificed, and milk or wine was thrown on the ground. This was repeated every year. If the relatives forgot, the soul was supposed to become evil and to bring bad luck.

Animals were sacrificed in honor of the gods, as well as for the spirits of men. Pigs, oxen, and sheep were the creatures most often killed. Flour and salt were sprinkled over each animal, its head was covered with cloths, and then the priest raised a large knife or an ax for the death-dealing blow. Prayers were said by those looking on. The bones and fat were placed on the altar and burned.

Dictionary Long Time in Making.

For three centuries some of the foremost literary men of France have been working at a book that is not yet completed, nor, presumably, ever will be. They are the forty "immortals" of the French academy, and the book is their French dictionary.

The French academy, says the Mentor magazine, was founded early in the Seventeenth century by a group of young men who wished to purify and embellish the language. They undertook to publish a dictionary, a rhetoric, and a grammar. In 1634 the dictionary was published, but the first part of it was then already out of date, and needed revision. And, so it has gone ever since. Members are elected for life. They seek entrance and must visit each of the thirty-nine members in turn when seeking admission.

Mesopotamia Still Picturesque.
Mesopotamia, land of the Garden of Eden and Mt. Ararat, is just as much a picturesque region as when Cain and Abel were boys, but it is almost overshadowed by its historical setting, says a National Geographic society bulletin.

Along the Tigris river are boats which look more like tubs. They are made of wicker, from 5 to 10 feet in diameter, and are tarred to make them waterproof. They are called "goofas." Other water craft are rafts with blown-up goat skins attached to give them buoyancy.

This is a land of dates. There are date trees everywhere there are any trees at all. Every courtyard, the secluded scene of family life, has its date trees, and trees and cupolas form a quaint skyline.

OUR DEBT TO THE CAVE MAN

Tribute to Him by William James One of Most Eloquent Passages in Literature.

One of the most eloquent passages in American literature is William James' tribute to the cave man, says the Detroit News. He wrote: "Bone of our bone and flesh of our flesh, are these half-brutish prehistoric brothers. Girdled about with the immense darkness of this mysterious universe even as we are, they were born, and died, suffered and struggled. Given over to fearful crime and passion, plunged in the blackest ignorance, preyed upon by hideous and grotesque delusions yet steadfastly serving the profoundest of ideals in their fixed faith that existence in any form is better than non-existence, they ever rescued triumphantly from the jaws of ever-imminent destruction the torch of life which, thanks to them, now lights the world for us."

"How small indeed seem individual distinctions when we look back on these overwhelming numbers of human beings panting and straining under the pressure of that vital want. And how inessential in the eyes of God must be the small surplus of the individual's merit, swamped as it is in the vast ocean of the common merit of mankind dumbly and undauntingly doing the fundamental duty and living the heroic life. We grow humble and reverent as we contemplate the prodigious spectacle."

OMENS OF ANCIENT ROMANS

How They Observed Birds and Cut Up Animals to Find Out "the Signs."

The ancient Romans believed in signs. When they wanted to know whether to do this thing or that, they tried to find out "the signs." Some persons looked at birds flying over-

FOUR STARS OF THE GRIDIRON AND THEIR PROUD FATHER

To be the father of a football hero is in itself some thing to be proud of, but when one has the exceptional fortune of having four football heroes in the family, then truly have the Gods given plenty. head. Others cut up animals, to see what "signs" were inside.

Perhaps most interesting of all was the custom of keeping certain chickens and calling them sacred. If someone wanted to know if a plan would succeed, he tried to feed the chickens. If they ate heartily, it was a good sign. If they refused to eat, the plan was probably given up.

When a Roman died, food and drink were placed beside his body in the tomb. Animals were sacrificed, and milk or wine was thrown on the ground. This was repeated every year. If the relatives forgot, the soul was supposed to become evil and to bring bad luck.

Animals were sacrificed in honor of the gods, as well as for the spirits of men. Pigs, oxen, and sheep were the creatures most often killed. Flour and salt were sprinkled over each animal, its head was covered with cloths, and then the priest raised a large knife or an ax for the death-dealing blow. Prayers were said by those looking on. The bones and fat were placed on the altar and burned.

Dictionary Long Time in Making.

For three centuries some of the foremost literary men of France have been working at a book that is not yet completed, nor, presumably, ever will be. They are the forty "immortals" of the French academy, and the book is their French dictionary. The French academy, says the Mentor magazine, was founded early in the Seventeenth century by a group of young men who wished to purify and embellish the language. They undertook to publish a dictionary, a rhetoric, and a grammar. In 1694 the dictionary was published, but the first part of it was then already out of date, and needed revision. And, so it has gone ever since. Members are elected for life. They seek entrance and must visit each of the thirty-nine members in turn when seeking admission.

Mesopotamia Still Picturesque.

Mesopotamia, land of the Garden of Eden and Mt. Ararat, is just as much a picturesque region as when Cain and Abel were boys, but it is almost overshadowed by its historical setting, says a National Geographic society bulletin.

Along the Tigris river are boats which look more like tubs. They are made of wicker, from 5 to 10 feet in diameter, and are tarred to make them waterproof. They are called "goofas." Other water craft are rafts with blown-up goat skins attached to give them buoyancy.

This is a land of dates. There are date trees everywhere there are any trees at all. Every courtyard, the secluded scene of family life, has its date trees, and trees and cupolas form a quaint skyline.

MINNESOTA LOSING GROUND

THE figures given out by Prof. F. H. Swift, of the University of Minnesota, relative to the standing of Minnesota in relation to other states in educational matters, will put the citizens of Minnesota out of conceit with themselves. Prof. Swift is making an educational survey for the federal government and his figures are those compiled in this investigation into the educational achievements of the various states. They show that Minnesota is losing ground. Citizens of Brainerd are convinced that this city has failed to come up to the standard demanded by this city today. For this no one is to blame; the conditions to which Prof. Swift points are responsible for the situation here and in other places.

It has been said that several years ago the schools in Brainerd, as to buildings and equipment, were equal to any in the state. Since that time our educational equipment has not kept pace with the demands of the city. While this is true of Brainerd, towns like Hibbing have built school buildings which more than meet the demands of the communities in which they stand. Such a condition as this calls for consideration. In one place the income is not commensurate with the educational requirements of the community, while in another town the income is so great that it leads to the building of and equipping of buildings in such a way as to justify a charge of extravagance.

We will present what Prof. Swift has to say on this unfortunate condition of things after giving the facts as he gave them. They are of this order:

"Minnesota's educational rank in the United States has declined steadily in the last 30 years.

"In 1890 Minnesota was 11th in the number of pupils enrolled compared with other states. In 1920 the state was 24th.

"In 1890 Minnesota was 26th in the average length of term while in 1920 it was 32nd.

"Minnesota in 1920 was 11th in total expenditures for schools; 11th in the state's wealth per school child; and 11th in the amount expended for each child enrolled."

Coming to the causes for Minnesota's backward step as compared with the other states, Prof. Swift says a timely word. He points out the glaring inequalities that exist in this state as regards both wealth and taxation. The professor says, "The less able the community to contribute towards education, the greater is the taxation. The whole educational system's finances are wrongly projected."

Minnesota is in the position she holds today in relation to the other states because of this injustice. So long as 24 per cent of the public school moneys are spent in one county—St. Louis county—which has only 9 per cent of the children of the state other sections of Minnesota are not receiving fair treatment and the educational standards of the state cannot be kept up where they ought to be.

Legislation ought to be introduced that will result in a more equitable distribution of the public school moneys of this state, and communities like Brainerd, that are afflicted by the operation of the present system of taxation, must be relieved from the burden which rests so heavily upon the taxpayers, and which, despite its weight, does not yield an income sufficient to provide the buildings and equipment necessary in a city of 10,000 people.

BRAINERD'S GOOD NAME

THE meeting of the business and professional men of Brainerd held on Thursday evening revealed a unity of purpose that is seldom seen in a gathering composed of two hundred or more men. The issue faced by the men who had been called together was of such a character that it was to be expected that there would be a unanimity of opinion. That issue was whether the good name of Brainerd is to be secured or whether the name Brainerd, because of lawless elements in the city, is to become the synonym for lawlessness condoned by the citizens of the county seat of Crow Wing county.

It is not often that a meeting holds so closely to the subject under discussion as the gathering of Thursday evening held to its theme through three hours. There was only one subject up for consideration and that had to do with a condition brought about by the strike. However, questions that are related to the differences between the railroad and the strikers were not at any time discussed. Such a discussion would have led to the expression of differences of opinion. The meeting narrowed down its program to a consideration of the failure of the city to protect the liberty of men within it. That protection must be given to all within our borders was the sense of all of those present, and the meeting decided to call upon the mayor and the sheriff to afford this protection or, in case of the failure of these officers to provide protection, to appeal to the governor of the state for the necessary protection.

No matter how sympathetic one may feel towards the strikers, whether one thinks that it is wise or unwise to continue the struggle, it is impossible to tolerate the things done recently on our streets. For such things the majority of the strikers are not to blame, but for these things they are being blamed. There is every reason to expect that they will heartily cooperate in enforcing the laws of the state of Minnesota during this time, when any lawlessness is almost inevitably, because of conditions, laid at their doors.

Brainerd has received a great deal of unfavorable notoriety through the state and beyond the state, and while most of it has no justification in fact, there is reasonable ground for criticism. The attitude taken by the business and professional men is not to the disadvantage of the strikers. If the happenings of the past few days had been allowed to continue it is certain that something deplorable would have happened in this city before many days had passed. The demand for the suppression of lawlessness in Brainerd has come none too soon. This control of lawless elements must be absolute.

BUSY TONGUES

ASSUMING that the story told by Loraine Schneider is true, the young woman who told the story is a victim of the gossiping tongues of a small community. All the suffering the victim has endured and all the sorrow of her parents, who for months had reason to fear that she had come to a tragic end, if the story she has told is true, resulted from the wagging tongues of neighbors. It is passing strange that in spite of all the idealism preached in churches, lodges and clubs people think of this idealism as something to be related to people at a distance, and proceed to blacken the reputations of those near at hand. Of all thieves in this old world the one who steals character is the meanest and the most contemptible. The contents of the purse are trash compared with character values as these have no value to the one who steals them.

MOTORLESS FLYING

THE achievement of M. Maneyrolle, a Frenchman, who recently won the London Daily Mail's one thousand pound prize, points to a greater future for the pilots of the air than had even been suggested by previous experiments. This aviator was in the air over three hours in a motorless monoplane and reached higher levels during his flight than the level at which he started. He accomplished wonderful feats with his plane which give promise of the building of machines that will reduce the risks of flying and bring to the knowledge of aviators many secrets not yet discovered.

THE political pot is boiling and the waiting voters keep on waiting for someone to stir up something. The confession of the managers of the campaigns of the candidates that the vote will be small suggests that there is nothing in the pot to be stirred up.

DIABETES sounds so much like dying anyhow that the name is almost sufficient. A cure has been found that does not exactly cure but it keeps the disease asleep, which is almost as good. The extract doesn't finish the germ but gives it a knock-out blow.

THE conservatives in England say that Lloyd George could kill the dragon of war but he cannot fly with the dove of peace. Nevertheless there are those who think that he will grow wings if necessary.

FOOTBALL has taken its place in the world of sports and Babe Ruth's record will be forgotten until the snows of winter give place to the balmy days of spring.

SENATOR HILDING SWANSON lives in Crow Wing county and his fellow citizens of Crow Wing county expect to return him to the senate. Why shouldn't they?

MCADOO would not say "Yes" or "No" when questioned as to his desire to succeed his father-in-law in the White House.

OTHER PEOPLES OPINIONS

Lloyd George at Manchester

Here stands a man not tall of stature but full broad of shoulder. Beneath him lies a sea of faces raised as by magnetic attraction until ten thousand eyes look into two and two, seemingly at once, into ten thousand. The historic Free Trade hall of Manchester recalls the names of Bright and Cobden and their fight for common men. Forgotten soon were they—eclipsed by the energetic figure of the man now voicing the concepts of democracy. Flashes the eye, up goes the chin, quivers the voice, and with a mighty roar as of surging waters the crowd responds. The rivers of experience which have flowed into him are now sent forth with the unflinching purpose and oceanic grandeur of a tidal flow. Deep call eth unto deep; his depth the measure of the depths of all before him. Not now, as once, is he the cause of hissing, the object of contempt; but rather the spark that kindles into kindred fire the latent embers in the souls of men.

That he who measures in himself the heights and depths of men should move to hatred or to adoration is not surprising. Such hatred he once experienced when in opposition he stood forth alone. It was during the Boer war and the meeting was in Birmingham when, even his commanding personality, could not quiet the turbulent spirit of the mob. His very strength was then his undoing, arousing as it did the opposition of the crowd. Then his attitude of measured strength and calm command spoke in language clearer than articulate utterance: "I know you and I shall conquer." But the mob hurled back the answer: "Your strength but makes us stronger. Because your command is equal to your knowledge of us you can lead us when your voice expresses our desire, but when it speaks in opposition to our purpose, because you are of us we are angry."

But now the voice is speaking to the common heart of common men of common needs. And as the violinist calls forth music because he knows his violin—each string—and how to call from it its best response, so this man plays upon the human chords he knows so well until the hall is filled with the deep music of accord. Because he knows the crowd the questions of the crowd are quickly answered.

"What about —?" asks a gruff voice. And as though the speaker had been considering the question, though he had not but another unrelated, the answer flashes back across the hall almost before the question dies on the lips of the questioner.

"My answer is —"

He does not give the impression of isolated greatness, of one who wears a crown which he alone may wear. His attitude suggests: I was one of you; I am one of you. I climbed; climb ye. Because I know you, thereby lies my power. I seek to re-make conditions because the conditions of my earlier years taught me that conditions need re-making. I am the apostle of democracy because I believe in the people. The lowliness of my early life, the hardships of that condition, the grave injustice meted out to the common man, these constituted the hell in which I glimpsed a heaven of future good. Despite my associates in the high office to which you called me my heart still beats true to the pulsings of the heart of common humanity. I am of the people, by the people and for the people. We want not superman but supermen. Awake, climb, let's scale the mountain of national achievement together. Hello, you're climbing with me. Here's my hand.

TRUNK HIGHWAYS CONTINUE EXCELLENT

IF KIDNEYS ACHE FLUSH WITH SALTS

Harmless Way to Clean Your Kidneys and Help Bladder.

Kidney and bladder irritations often result from uric acid, says a noted authority. The kidneys filter this acid from the blood and pass it into the bladder, where it may remain to irritate and inflame, causing a burning, scalding sensation, or setting up an irritation at the neck of the bladder obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night. The sufferer is in constant dread; the water passes sometimes with a scalding sensation and is very profuse; again, there is difficulty in voiding it.

Bladder weakness most folks call it, because they can't control urination. While it is extremely annoying and sometimes very painful, this is often one of the most simple ailments to overcome. Get about four ounces of Jads Salts from your pharmacist and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast; continue this for two or three days. This will help neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation to the bladder and urinary organs, which then act normal again.

Jads Salts is inexpensive, harmless, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used by thousands of folks who are subject to urinary disorders caused by uric acid irritation. Jads Salts is splendid for kidneys and causes no bad effects whatever.

Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia water drink, which often quickly relieves bladder irritation.

The professor says, "The less able the community to contribute towards education, the greater is the taxation. The whole educational system's finances are wrongly projected."

Minnesota is in the position she holds today in relation to the other states because of this injustice. So long as 24 per cent of the public school moneys are spent in one county—St. Louis county—which has only 9 per cent of the children of the state other sections of Minnesota are not receiving fair treatment and the educational standards of the state cannot be kept up where they ought to be.

Legislation ought to be introduced that will result in a more equitable distribution of the public school moneys of this state, and communities like Brainerd, that are afflicted by the operation of the present system of taxation, must be relieved from the burden which rests so heavily upon the taxpayers, and which, despite its weight, does not yield an income sufficient to provide the buildings and equipment necessary in a city of 10,000 people.

BRAINERD'S GOOD NAME

THE meeting of the business and professional men of Brainerd held on Thursday evening revealed a unity of purpose that is seldom seen in a gathering composed of two hundred or more men. The issue faced by the men who had been called together was of such a character that it was to be expected that there would be a unanimity of opinion. That issue was whether the good name of Brainerd is to be secured or whether the name Brainerd, because of lawless elements in the city, is to become the synonym for lawlessness condoned by the citizens of the county seat of Crow Wing county.

It is not often that a meeting holds so closely to the subject under discussion as the gathering of Thursday evening held to its theme through three hours. There was only one subject up for consideration and that had to do with a condition brought about by the strike. However, questions that are related to the differences between the railroad and the strikers were not at any time discussed. Such a discussion would have led to the expression of differences of opinion. The meeting narrowed down its program to a consideration of the failure of the city to protect the liberty of men within it. That protection must be given to all within our borders was the sense of all of those present, and the meeting decided to call upon the mayor and the sheriff to afford this protection or, in case of the failure of these officers to provide protection, to appeal to the governor of the state for the necessary protection.

No matter how sympathetic one may feel towards the strikers, whether one thinks that it is wise or unwise to continue the struggle, it is impossible to tolerate the things done recently on our streets. For such things the majority of the strikers are not to blame, but for these things they are being blamed. There is every reason to expect that they will heartily cooperate in enforcing the laws of the state of Minnesota during this time, when any lawlessness is almost inevitably, because of conditions, laid at their doors.

Brainerd has received a great deal of unfavorable notoriety through the state and beyond the state, and while most of it has no justification in fact, there is reasonable ground for criticism. The attitude taken by the business and professional men is not to the disadvantage of the strikers. If the happenings of the past few days had been allowed to continue it is certain that something deplorable would have happened in this city before many days had passed. The demand for the suppression of lawlessness in Brainerd has come none too soon. This control of lawless elements must be absolute.

BUSY TONGUES

ASSUMING that the story told by Loraine Schneider is true, the young woman who told the story is a victim of the gossiping

tongues of a small community. All the suffering the victim has endured and all the sorrow of her parents, who for months had reason to fear that she had come to a tragic end, if the story she has told is true, resulted from the wagging tongues of neighbors. It is passing strange that in spite of all the idealism preached in churches, lodges and clubs people think of this idealism as something to be related to people at a distance, and proceed to blacken the reputations of those near at hand. Of all thieves in this old world the one who steals character is the meanest and the most contemptible. The contents of the purse are trash compared with character values as these have no value to the one who steals them.

MOTORLESS FLYING

THE achievement of M. Maneyrolle, a Frenchman, who recently won the London Daily Mail's one thousand pound prize, points to a greater future for the pilots of the air than had even been suggested by previous experiments. This aviator was in the air over three hours in a motorless monoplane and reached higher levels during his flight than the level at which he started. He accomplished wonderful feats with his plane which give promise of the building of machines that will reduce the risks of flying and bring to the knowledge of aviators many secrets not yet discovered.

OTHER PEOPLES OPINIONS

Lloyd George at Manchester

Here stands a man not tall of stature but full broad of shoulder. Beneath him lies a sea of faces raised as by magnetic attraction until ten thousand eyes look into two and two, seemingly at once, into ten thousand. The historic Free Trade hall of Manchester recalls the names of Bright and Cobden and their fight for common men. Forgotten soon were they—eclipsed by the energetic figure of the man now voicing the concepts of democracy. Flashes the eye, up goes the chin, quivers the voice, and with a mighty roar as of surging waters the crowd responds. The rivers of experience which have flowed into him are now sent forth with the unflinching purpose and oceanic grandeur of a tidal flow. Deep call to the depths of all before him. Not now, as once, is he the cause of hissing, the object of contempt; but rather the spark that kindles into kindred fire the latent embers in the souls of men.

That he who measures in himself the heights and depths of men should move to hatred or to adoration is not surprising. Such hatred he once experienced when in opposition he stood forth alone. It was during the Boer war and the meeting was in Birmingham when, even his commanding personality, could not quiet the turbulent spirit of the mob. His very strength was then his undoing, arousing as it did the opposition of the crowd. Then his attitude of measured strength and calm command spoke in language clearer than articulate utterance: "I know you and I shall conquer." But the mob hurled back the answer: "Your strength but makes us stronger. Because your command is equal to your knowledge of us you can lead us when your voice expresses our desire, but when it speaks in opposition to our purpose, because you are of us we are angry."

But now the voice is speaking to the common heart of common men of common needs. And as the violinist calls forth music because he knows his violin—each string—and how to call from it its best response, so this man plays upon the human chords he knows so well until the hall is filled with the deep music of accord. Because he knows the crowd the questions of the crowd are quickly answered.

"What about —?" asks a gruff voice.

And as though the speaker had been considering the question, though he had not but another unrelated, the answer flashes back across the hall almost before the question dies on the lips of the questioner:

"My answer is —"

He does not give the impression of isolated greatness, of one who wears a crown which he alone may wear. His attitude suggests: I was one of you; I am one of you. I climbed; I climb yet. Because I know you, I know your power. I seek to re-make conditions because the conditions of my earlier years taught me that conditions need re-making. I am the apostle of democracy because I believe in the people. The lawlessness of my early life, the hardships of that condition, the grave injustice meted out to the common man, these constituted the hell in which I glimpsed a heaven of future good. Despite my associates in the high office to which you called me, my heart still beats true to the pulsings of the heart of common humanity. I am of the people, by the people and for the people. We want not superman but supermen. Awake, climb, let's scale the mountain of national achievement together. Hello, you're climbing with me. Here's my hand.

irritate and inflame, causing a burning, scalding sensation, or setting up an irritation at the neck of the bladder obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night. The sufferer is in constant dread; the water passes sometimes with a scalding sensation and is very profuse; again, there is difficulty in voiding it.

Bladder weakness most folks call it, because they can't control urination. While it is extremely annoying and sometimes very painful, this is often one of the most simple ailments to overcome. Get about four ounces of Jads Salts from your pharmacist and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast; continue this for two or three days. This will help neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation to the bladder and urinary organs, which then act normal again.

Jads Salts is inexpensive, harmless, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used by thousands of folks who are subject to urinary disorders caused by uric acid irritation. Jads Salts is splendid for kidneys and causes no bad effects whatever.

Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia water drink, which often quickly relieves bladder irritation.

BRAINERD IS CITY IN FOURTH CLASS

City Clerk Here Swamped With Questions Regarding Registration Day for Coming General Election

NO SUCH DAY IN BRAINERD

Poll Lists Made and Posted in Each Ward, Another List Will be Made on October 31st

The city clerk's office is being swamped with questions regarding registration day for the coming general election. The Twin Cities have already had their registration day, and Brainerd citizens are anxious to learn if this city is to have one, and when it will come.

The explanation is that Brainerd does not come under the classification of cities that must hold registration days, and therefore none will be held here. Since the last census, which put Brainerd down as a city of less than ten thousand population, we have been designated as being in the fourth class, and cities in this class do not have any registration day.

A poll list has been made and a copy posted at the polls in each ward. This list is made up from the primary election lists, and therefore is not complete. Another list will be posted on October 31st which will be considered complete, although names may be added or taken off by the judges on election day.

The voting places in each ward are as follows: 1st ward, city hall; 2nd ward, public library; third ward, hose house in Northeast Brainerd; 4th ward, hose house in Southeast Brainerd; 5th ward, the office of the new O'Brien building to the south of Fitzsimmons & Wagner's on Broadway.

Preparations are being made for the casting of a heavy vote at the general election Nov 7th. There were about 2,500 votes cast in the city at the primary election last June, and more are always interested in voting at the general election.

Much interest has been aroused over the special election to be held at the same time to vote on two amendments to the city charter. Ballots are now being prepared for printing to take care of this vote.

GAME NATURE PRACTICE BOUT

Two of Brainerd's Players including Captain Were Unable to be in the Game

The Brainerd football team met defeat at the hands of the Staples eleven Thursday afternoon on the Staples field, the score being 6 to 0.

The game was in the nature of a practice bout for both teams, in preparation for Saturday's skirmishes when Brainerd meets Little Falls at that city, and Staples plays Crosby.

Two of Brainerd's best players, including the captain, were unable to be in the game, which accounts in a measure for the defeat. But neither team, according to reports, showed their best form, the reason being that both were saving their strength for Saturday's battles.

William Graham, Brainerd's star end, had his leg quite seriously injured and it is doubtful if he will be able to get into the Little Falls game Saturday.

The referee at Staples was Schdtger of Crosby, the umpire a Staples man.

Last Saturday, on the home field Brainerd took Staples into camp with a score of 14 to 0.

CLARENCE WITHAM FOUND GUILTY TOO

Given Same Sentence, 90 Days or $100 Fine, as was Imposed on George Schilb

WAS CHARGED WITH ASSAULT

Of Warren L. Harter, Replacement Man, at Movie Theatre in Brainerd October 21

In municipal court Saturday morning, Judge J. H. Warner pronounced sentence upon George Schilb, found guilty of assault upon Warren L. Harter at the Lyceum theater Oct. 21st. The sentence imposed was 90 days in jail or $100 which is the maximum that can be given by this court. It is understood that an appeal will be taken at once.

The case of Clarence Witham, charged with the same offense as was the next on the docket Schilb was tried Saturday morning. Gill Keen was the first witness to testify. He stated that he stood on the Iron Exchange corner, saw a man walking up the street toward him from the Lyceum and saw another come up and hit the stranger. He took the assailant to be Witham.

Warren Harter next took the stand and told practically the same story that he related in connection with the Schilb trial Friday. He stated that he noticed the crowd of men follow him to the Lyceum ticket window, where he purchased a ticket and was about to enter the theatre, but was pushed away from the door and struck several times. He also related the fact that one man in swinging at him, lost his balance and fell down, thus leaving an opening in the crowd through which Harter dodged and ran to the Harrison hotel.

John D. Beugnot, who operates the picture machine at the Lyceum was called, and testified that he was watching the crowd at the door from the window in his booth above. He stated that he saw Harter come to the theater, stop and look at the pictures on the billboards and then buy a ticket for the show. He did not see him hit by anyone, but later saw him running away from the crowd. Beugnot said that he saw Witham as wearing a long black overcoat and grey cap, which later Witham denied.

Louis Kinder, attorney for Witham moved that the case be dismissed on account of no identity being established and a lack of evidence that his client was one who struck Harter. The judge over-ruled this motion.

Witham took the stand in his own defense and stated that on the night of the assault, he came from the First National bank corner to the Levant corner and saw a large crowd assembled across the street in front of the Lyceum theater. That he went over to see what the trouble was, asked a man by the name of Kunde, who told him the trouble was all over. Witham then walked east toward the Smracker pool hall and back to the Harrison hotel. He testified that he did not strike Harter or touch him or anyone else that evening. He admitted being with Geo. Schilb, and coming to the scene of the trouble with him, was parted from Schilb for a short time, but later rejoined him.

Gregory Mraz was called to the stand and testified that he was attending the door of the theater when the assault occurred, collecting tickets from the patrons, that he saw Schilb in the crowd gathered directly in front of the Lyceum, but that he did not see Witham there.

In summing up the case, Judge Warner rehearsed the facts and stated that a great deal of the evidence submitted had been contradictory, especially in regard to Witham having been in the crowd at the time the assault took place, but that he believed the evidence was conclusive enough to be beyond the shadow of a doubt against the defendant, and he therefore pronounced him guilty as charged. His fine was made the same as Schilb's, namely $100 or 90 days in jail.

Witham will appeal the case, it is understood, Wilhelm Schilb and John W. Witham being sureties on the appeal bonds of both George Schilb and Clarence Witham.

GEORGE SCHILB IS FOUND GUILTY

Of Charge of Assaulting Warren Harter, Replacement Day, on Saturday Evening

MUNICIPAL COURT HEARING

Defense Will Make a Motion for an Appeal in the Case, Maximum Sentence is 90 Days or $100 Fine

In the trial of George Schilb, which was continued from Friday morning until two o'clock that afternoon, Gregory Mraz was called as a witness for the state. Mraz stated that he was "on the door" at the time of the trouble, being engaged in collecting tickets from patrons as they entered the Lyceum theatre.

He stated that he saw Schilb in the crowd around Warren Harter, but did not see the latter struck.

Schilb took the stand in his own behalf and swore that at the time of the trouble he was across the street from the scene of action, standing on the Levant corner. That afterward, he, in company with Witham, crossed the street to the theatre and inquired of Smracker and John Welliver what the trouble was about, and that they informed him that he was too late, the trouble was all over.

John Welliver, witness for the defense, was next called, and stated that he was standing in front of Lammson's Pharmacy waiting for friends who were to arrive in an automobile, that he did not see the assault, did not know who did the hitting, but did see Harter run across the street followed by several men. He stated that Schilb then came from around the crowd at the Lyceum and stopped to inquire what the trouble was about.

Clarence Witham, next testified, stating that he was with Schilb at the time of the trouble, both standing on the Levant corner. That they were told that Harter had run to the Harrison hotel, when they went across the street to inquire. In company with Schilb he then walked east from the Lyceum past the bakery and that at no time had Schilb struck a blow or engaged in any kind of trouble.

Louis Kinder, attorney for Schilb and D. H. Fullerton for the state each presented their arguments, after which the judge summed up the evidence, stating that the evidence of the different witnesses conflicted, and that he believed the guilt of Schilb was established beyond a reasonable doubt. He then pronounced Schilb guilty, deferring the passage of sentence until Saturday morning at 10 o'clock.

The defense will make a motion for an appeal in this case, the maximum sentence of which is 90 days in jail or $100 fine.

STATEMENT BY P. J. SMRACKER

In a statement made to the Dispatch by P. J. Smracker, part owner of the Smracker billiard hall on Laurel street, in reference to the disorder in streets reported on Wednesday night, and which was mentioned in affidavits made by replacement men, Mr. Smracker states as follows: "That five men entered his billiard room and while they were in there a number gathered on Laurel street and it looked to Mr. Smracker that there might be trouble of some kind and it looked to Mr. Smracker that would not be good policy to walk on to avoid trouble. There was no fight said Mr. Smracker, in his pool room, neither did he order any one out of the pool room."

SUMMER TUB SILK DRESSES

Shirting Material is Being Used; is Also Suitable for Dresses for the Children.

Tub silk dresses are in vogue this summer, and while washable crepes are much to the fore, perhaps the most practical and least expensive of these dresses are made of shirting silks. The same silks that are usually sold for men's shirts are being bought in large quantities by women for their own appareling, and dainty and serviceable dresses for children are also made of these shirting silks. Whether for children or grownups, tub silk dresses are usually made on somewhat plain or tailored lines, with no ruffling or bouffant effects. Pifflings or bindings of ribbon or fabric in contrasting color provide the popular trimming touch, if trimming is used at all.

BRAINERD IS CITY IN FOURTH CLASS

City Clerk Here Swamped With Questions Regarding Registration Day for Coming General Election

NO SUCH DAY IN BRAINERD
Poll Lists Made and Posted in Each Ward, Another List Will be Made on October 31st

The city clerk's office is being swamped with questions regarding registration day for the coming general election. The Twin Cities have already had their registration day, and Brainerd citizens are anxious to learn if this city is to have one, and when it will come.

The explanation is that Brainerd does not come under the classification of cities that must hold registration days, and therefore none will be held here. Since the last census, which put Brainerd down as a city of less than ten thousand population, we have been designated as being in the fourth class, and cities in this class do not have any registration day.

A poll list has been made and a copy posted at the polls in each ward. This list is made up from the primary election lists, and therefore is not complete. Another list will be posted on October 31st which will be considered complete, although names may be added or taken off by the judges on election day.

The voting places in each ward are as follows: 1st ward, city hall; 2nd ward, public library; third ward, hose house in Northeast Brainerd; 4th ward, hose house in Southeast Brainerd; 5th ward, the office of the new O'Brien building to the south of Fitzsimmons & Wagner's on Broadway.

Preparations are being made for the casting of a heavy vote at the general election Nov 7th. There were about 2,500 votes cast in the city at the primary election last June, and more are always interested in voting at the general election.

Much interest has been aroused over the special election to be held at the same time to vote on two amendments to the city charter. Ballots are now being prepared for printing to take care of this vote.

Staples Eleven Victorious Thursday Afternoon on the Staples Field, Turning Tables on Brainerd

GAME NATURE PRACTICE BOUT
Two of Brainerd's Players including Captain Were Unable to be in the Game

The Brainerd football team met defeat at the hands of the Staples eleven Thursday afternoon on the Staples field, the score being 6 to 0.

The game was in the nature of a practice bout for both teams, in preparation for Saturday's skirmishes when Brainerd meets Little Falls at that city, and Staples plays Crosby.

Two of Brainerd's best players, including the captain, were unable to be in the game, which accounts in a measure for the defeat. But neither team, according to reports, showed their best form, the reason being that both were saving their strength for Saturday's battles.

William Graham, Brainerd's star end, had his leg quite seriously injured and it is doubtful if he will be able to get into the Little Falls game Saturday.

The referee at Staples was Schdinger of Crosby, the umpire a Staples man.

Last Saturday, on the home field Brainerd took Staples into camp with a score of 14 to 0.

CLARENCE WITHAM FOUND GUILTY TOO

Given Same Sentence, 90 Days or $100 Fine, as was Imposed on George Schilb

WAS CHARGED WITH ASSAULT
Of Warren L. Harter, Replacement Man, at Movie Theatre in Brainerd October 21

In municipal court Saturday morning, Judge J. H. Warner pronounced sentence upon George Schilb, found guilty of assault upon Warren L. Harter at the Lyceum theater Oct. 21st. The sentence imposed was 90 days in jail or $100 which is the maximum that can be given by this court. It is understood that an appeal will be taken at once.

The case of Clarence Witham, charged with the same offense as was the next on the docket Schilb was tried Saturday morning. Gill Keen was the first witness to testify. He stated that he stood on the Iron Exchange corner, saw a man walking up the street toward him from the Lyceum and saw another come up and hit the stranger. He took the assailant to be Witham.

Warren Harter next took the stand and told practically the same story that he related in connection with the Schilb trial Friday. He stated that he noticed the crowd of men follow him to the Lyceum ticket window, where he purchased a ticket and was about to enter the theatre, but was pushed away from the door and struck several times. He also related the fact that one man in swinging at him, lost his balance and fell down, thus leaving an opening in the crowd through which Harter dodged and ran to the Harrison hotel.

John D. Beugnot, who operates the picture machine at the Lyceum was called, and testified that he was watching the crowd at the door from the window in his booth above. He stated that he saw Harter come to the theatre, stop and look at the pictures on the billboards and then buy a ticket for the show. He did not see him hit by anyone, but later saw him running away from the crowd. Beugnot said that he saw Witham wearing a long black overcoat and grey cap, which later Witham denied.

Louis Kinder, attorney for Witham moved that the case be dismissed on account of no identity being established and a lack of evidence that his client was one who struck Harter. The judge over-ruled this motion.

Witham took the stand in his own defense and stated that on the night of the assault, he came from the First National bank corner to the Lyceum corner and saw a large crowd assembled across the street in front of the Lyceum theater. That he went over to see what the trouble was, asked a man by the name of Kunde, who told him the trouble was all over. Witham then walked east toward the Smracker pool hall and back to the Harrison hotel. He testified that he did not strike Harter or touch him or anyone else that evening. He admitted being with Geo. Schilb, and coming to the scene of the trouble with him, was parted from Schilb for a short time, but later rejoined him.

Gregory Mraz was called to the stand and testified that he was attending the door of the theater when the assault occurred, collecting tickets from the patrons, that he saw Schilb in the crowd gathered directly in front of the Lyceum, but that he did not see Witham there.

In summing up the case, Judge Warner rehearsed the facts and stated that a great deal of the evidence submitted had been contradictory, especially in regard to Witham having been in the crowd at the time the assault took place, but that he believed the evidence was conclusive enough to be beyond the shadow of a doubt against the defendant, and he therefore pronounced him guilty as charged. His fine was made the same as Schilb's, namely $100 or 90 days in jail.

Witham will appeal the case, it is understood, Wilhelm Schilb and John W. Witham being sureties on the appeal bonds of both George Schilb and Clarence Witham.

GEORGE SCHILB IS FOUND GUILTY

Of Charge of Assaulting Warren Harter, Replacement Day, on Saturday Evening

MUNICIPAL COURT HEARING
Defense Will Make a Motion for an Appeal in the Case, Maximum Sentence is 90 Days or $100 Fine

In the trial of George Schilb, which was continued from Friday morning until two o'clock that afternoon, Gregory Mraz was called as a witness for the state. Mraz stated that he was "on the door" at the time of the trouble, being engaged in collecting tickets from patrons as they entered the Lyceum theatre.

He stated that he saw Schilb in the crowd around Warren Harter, but did not see the latter struck.

Schilb took the stand in his own behalf and swore that at the time of the trouble he was across the street from the scene of action, standing on the Levant corner. That afterward, he, in company with Witham, crossed the street to the theatre and inquired of Smracker and John Welliver what the trouble was about, and that they informed him that he was too late, the trouble was all over.

John Welliver, witness for the defense, was next called, and stated that he was standing in front of Laamon's Pharmacy waiting for friends who were to arrive in an automobile, that he did not see the assault, did not know who did the hitting, but did see Harter run across the street followed by several men. He stated that Schilb then came from around the crowd at the Lyceum and stopped to inquire what the trouble was about.

Clarence Witham, next testified, stating that he was with Schilb at the time of the trouble, both standing on the Levant corner. That they were told that Harter had run to the Harrison hotel, when they went across the street to inquire. In company with Schilb he then walked east from the Lyceum past the bakery and that at no time had Schilb struck a blow or engaged in any kind of trouble.

Louis Kinder, attorney for Schilb and D. H. Fullerton for the state each presented their arguments, after which the judge summed up the evidence, stating that the evidence of the different witnesses conflicted, and that he believed the guilt of Schilb was established beyond a reasonable doubt. He then pronounced Schilb guilty, deferring the passage of sentence until Saturday morning at 10 o'clock.

The defense will make a motion for an appeal in this case, the maximum sentence of which is 90 days in jail or $100 fine.

STATEMENT BY P. J. SMRACKER

In a statement made to the Dispatch by P. J. Smracker, part owner of the Smracker billiard hall on Laurel street, in reference to the disorder in streets reported on Wednesday night, and which was mentioned in affidavits made by replacement men, Mr. Smracker states as follows:

"That five men entered his billiard room and while they were in there a number gathered on Laurel street and it looked to Mr. Smracker that there might be trouble of some kind and it looked to Mr. Smracker that would not be good policy to walk out to avoid trouble. There was no fight said Mr. Smracker, in his pool room, neither did he order any one out of the pool room."

SUMMER TUB SILK DRESSES

Shirting Material is Being Used; is Also Suitable for Dresses for the Children.

Tub silk dresses are in vogue this summer, and while washable crepes are much to the fore, perhaps the most practical and least expensive of these dresses are made of shirting silks. The same silks that are usually sold for men's shirts are being bought in large quantities by women for their own appareling, and dainty and serviceable dresses for children are also made of these shirting silks. Whether for children or grownups, tub silk dresses are usually made on somewhat plain or tailored lines, with no ruffling or bouffant effects. Pibings or bindings of ribbon or fabric in contrasting color provide the popular trimming touch, if trimming is used at all.

FANNING WITH FARRELL

By HENRY L. FARRELL
United Press Sports Editor

New York, Oct. 28.—While evidence produced in the last three years made it an established fact, further proof that eastern football is no longer superior to the brand played in other sections of the country was provided when the University of Iowa defeated Yale in the first big inter-sectional game of the season.

More of such proof may go further and indicate that eastern football is now inferior to the game being developed in the Middle-west especially.

Yale no doubt was crippled in the Iowa game with such stars as Jordan, Beckett, Bench and O'Hearn out of the game and the Elis showed themselves in desperate need of good quarterback reserves.

Many of the critics, however, expressed the opinion that the result might have been the same if Yale had presented her full strength.

Yale continues weak where all the other big eastern, middle-western and southern teams are gaining strength—in the forward passing game.

The Elis continue to look with scorn upon the forward pass and the stubbornness with which Yale coaches refuse to develop that important implement of offense will never help the Blue get back the prestige of old.

Agreement entered into between Yale, Harvard and Princeton forbids inter-sectional football in the future and it is to be regretted, since it could have done the game and the "Big Three" also so much good.

Perhaps it is to save what little prestige remains with the "Big Three" that it was decided to play among themselves in the future.

Even though losing, Yale, Harvard and Princeton could get more nationwide credit in inter-sectional games than by making a thousand points a season on sectional set-ups.

Yale was such a good loser against Iowa that the Elis gained more prestige in the middle-west than they lost in the bowl gridiron.

Away from the east, where the policy of the "Big Three" is well known, football fans misunderstand the attitude of Yale, Harvard and Princeton over defeats in the early season.

Yale did not shed tears over losing to Iowa. On the other hand, the coaches, students and players almost ignored it. Yale starts the football season with but one object in view—to beat Harvard. All else amounts to nothing.

They look upon the Iowa game in New Haven as a game that helped Yale greatly to find the defects in the Blue machine and they do not consider it as a lost game when they acquired something that might help them to beat Harvard.

Harvard figures the same and so does Princeton, although in a smaller degree.

NOVA SCOTIA, SCENE OF BASEBALL WRITERS' MOOSE HUNT

The guide turned loose a call for moose. Above the ball scribe's head. "Which did you call—A STRIKE, or BA?" The baseball writer said.

THIS hasn't happened yet, but is liable to happen if the power of habit asserts itself when scribes of the Baseball Writers' Association of America are hunting moose in Nova Scotia. This year, after the world's series, five of their most popular members, chosen by ballot, invade the vast moose country of Evangeline Land in quest of the head and the big, broad spread of a Nova Scotia moose. When one hears an umpire calling strikes and balls for months and then gets switched to a hunter guide calling moose, he's apt to get his "dope" mixed.

The five, Frederick G. Lieb, New York Evening Telegram; Ed. Bang, Cleveland News-Leader; Sid Mercer, New York Evening Journal; Denman Thompson, Washington Star, and Ed. F. Ballinger, Pittsburgh Post, will be guests of the Canadian Pacific Railway. Mr. Lieb is president of the Baseball Writers' Association of America. Although there is a vast area of beautiful country in Nova Scotia along the western and southern shores particularly, including the famous Land of Evangeline, the interior is the moose hunter's paradise. There are miles upon miles of lakes, rivers and forests well populated by moose, deer, bear and smaller animals. A favorite approach to this region is through

South Milford easily reached via Annapolis Royal, N. S. by way of Boston and Yarmouth, N. S. or St. John N. B. and Digby. S. The ride from Digby and Annapolis Royal on the Dominion Atlantic Railway to South Milford is an automobile, and from South Milford the hunter or fisherman, with a few portages, can paddle in a canoe three quarters of the way across Nova Scotia to the Atlantic Ocean. The moose season lasts from Oct. 1 to Nov. 15, starting with moose calling and ending with still hunting. A dozen guides, among them such celebrities as Louie Harlow and Sam Glode, both Micmac Indians, work under the direction of A. D. Thomas along the shores of the Liverpool chain of lakes, Kedgemakogee and beyond. Nova Scotia is conserving its moose—a hunter is limited to one bull a year—and the moose country will always be good moose country because that's about all it is good for except trout fishing. The annual kill of moose in Nova Scotia is about 1,200 bulls—cows are protected—and as the annual increase equals the kill, there's no reason why a baseball scribe or anyone else who can shoot straight should not make a home run with a big moose head in the express car.

CHURCH FOR YOUNG PERSONS

Indianapolis Minister Successful in Operation of Branch for the Boys and Girls.

A junior church, the membership of which is limited to persons between six and sixteen years old, with the preacher the only adult present, is being successfully operated in Indianapolis. The plan was inaugurated by Rev. N. S. Sichterman of Grace Presbyterian church, that city.

According to Doctor Sichterman, there are 60 children ranging in age from six to sixteen years who are members of the junior organization. They have their own room for services, which are of 30 minutes' duration, and have their own officers. The plan was put into operation in January and Doctor Sichterman is so pleased with the results that he expects soon to double the membership.

Doctor Sichterman said the idea of forming a junior church developed from his experience in church with a boy.

"My people came from Holland and settled in a neighborhood of Hollanders in a small Michigan town," he said. "The church I attended as a boy also used the Dutch language and the services sometimes lasted two hours or more. I well remember how tired and restless I would get as the time dragged on, for the sermon, while appealing to adults, was not such as would appeal to the child."

"It was this experience which gave birth to the junior church idea, and last January I started the organization."

Father Love vs. Mother's.

Among some fishes the male assumes all the care and anxiety of parenthood. And this is true of at least one or two families of birds. The male ostrich hatches the eggs and looks after the little ones. The greatest enemy of the eggs and young of the stickleback fish is the mother herself. She not only has no affection for them whatever, but would eat every one of them if she weren't prevented from doing so by the father. In very few species of fish do the females care anything for either the eggs or the young.

Among fishes, therefore, the instinct to save the young is not the wonderful mother instinct found in the human or other higher species, but the father instinct.—Detroit News.

FANNING WITH FARRELL

WEST RANKS HIGH ON THE GRIDIRON

By HENRY L. FARRELL
United Press Sports Editor

New York, Oct. 28.—While evidence produced in the last three years made it an established fact, further proof that eastern football is no longer superior to the brand played in other sections of the country was provided when the University of Iowa defeated Yale in the first big inter-sectional game of the season.

More of such proof may go further and indicate that eastern football is now inferior to the game being developed in the Middle-west especially.

Yale no doubt was crippled in the Iowa game with such stars as Jordan, Beckett, Bench and O'Hearn out of the game and the Elis showed themselves in desperate need of good quarterback reserves.

Many of the critics, however, expressed the opinion that the result might have been the same if Yale had presented her full strength.

Yale continues weak where all the other big eastern, middle-western and southern teams are gaining strength—in the forward passing game.

The Elis continue to look with scorn upon the forward pass and the stubbornness with which Yale coaches refuse to develop that important implement of offense will never help the Blue get back the prestige of old.

Agreement entered into between Yale, Harvard and Princeton forbids inter-sectional football in the future and it is to be regretted, since it could have done the game and the "Big Three" also so much good.

Perhaps it is to save what little prestige remains with the "Big Three" that it was decided to play among themselves in the future.

Even though losing, Yale, Harvard and Princeton could get more nationwide credit in inter-sectional games than by making a thousand points a season on sectional set-ups.

Yale was such a good loser against Iowa that the Elis gained more prestige in the middle-west than they lost in the bowl gridiron.

Away from the east, where the policy of the "Big Three" is well known, football fans misunderstand the attitude of Yale, Harvard and Princeton over defeats in the early season.

Yale did not shed tears over losing to Iowa. On the other hand, the coaches, students and players almost ignored it. Yale starts the football season with but one object in view—to beat Harvard. All else amounts to nothing.

They look upon the Iowa game in New Haven as a game that helped Yale greatly to find the defects in the Blue machine and they do not consider it as a lost game when they acquired something that might help them to beat Harvard.

Harvard figures the same and so does Princeton, although in a smaller degree.

If you haven't seen the superb Paramount picture, "Paying the Piper," at the Lyceum theatre, you have the opportunity now. It will be shown the last time today.

Sylvia Breamer Now is With William Russell

William Russell, who opens Sunday at the Lyceum theatre in the Fox picture "Money to Burn," is fortunate in his leading woman, Sylvia Breamer. Miss Breamer is a most competent actress, and a young woman of charming personality. A native of Australia, she had five years of stage experience there in American successes. In this country she supported Grace George in two successful plays before entering pictures.

On the screen she has been with Triangle-Ince, Tourneur, Arcraft, J. S. Blackton, prior to her engagement by Fox. She has dark brown hair and eyes, is 5 feet 7 inches in height, and has a figure that is neither thin nor heavy.

NOVA SCOTIA, SCENE OF BASEBALL WRITERS' MOOSE HUNT

The guide turned loose
A call for moose
Above the ball scribe's head.
"Which did you call—
A STRIKE, or BA?"
The baseball writer said.

THIS hasn't happened yet, but is liable to happen if the power of habit asserts itself when scribes of the Baseball Writers' Association of America are hunting moose in Nova Scotia. This year, after the world's series, five of their most popular members, chosen by ballot, invade the vast moose country of Evangeline Land in quest of the head and the big, broad spread of a Nova Scotia moose. When one hears an umpire calling strikes and balls for months and then gets switched to a hunter guide calling moose, he's apt to get his "dope" mixed.

The five, Frederick G. Lieb, New York Evening Telegram; Ed. Bang, Cleveland News-Leader; Sid Mercer, New York Evening Journal; Denman Thompson, Washington Star, and Ed. F. Ballinger, Pittsburgh Post, will be guests of the Canadian Pacific Railway. Mr. Lieb is president of the Baseball Writers' Association of America. Although there is a vast area of beautiful country in Nova Scotia along the western and southern shores particularly, including the famous Land of Evangeline, the interior is the moose hunter's paradise. There are miles upon miles of lakes, rivers and forests well populated by moose, deer, bear and smaller animals. A favorite approach to this region is through

South Milford easily reached via Annapolis Royal, N. S. by way of Boston and Yarmouth, N. S. or St. John N. B. and Digby, N. S. The ride from Digby and Annapolis Royal on the Dominion Atlantic Railway to South Milford is by automobile, and from South Milford the hunter or fisherman, with a few portages, can paddle in a canoe three quarters of the way across Nova Scotia to the Atlantic Ocean. The moose season lasts from Oct. 1 to Nov. 15, starting with moose calling and ending with still hunting. A dozen guides, among them such celebrities as Louie Harlow and Sam Glode, both Micmac Indians, work under the direction of A. D. Thomas along the shores of the Liverpool chain of lakes, Kedgemakookee and beyond. Nova Scotia is conserving its moose—a hunter is limited to one bull a year—and the moose country will always be good moose country because that's about all it is good for except trout fishing. The annual kill of moose in Nova Scotia is about 1,200 bulls—cows are protected—and as the annual increase equals the kill, there's no reason why a baseball scribe or anyone else who can shoot straight should not make a home run with a big moose head in the express car.

CHURCH FOR YOUNG PERSONS

Indianapolis Minister Successful in Operation of Branch for the Boys and Girls.

A junior church, the membership of which is limited to persons between six and sixteen years old, with the preacher the only adult present, is being successfully operated in Indianapolis. The plan was inaugurated by Rev. N. S. Sichterman of Grace Presbyterian church, that city.

According to Doctor Sichterman, there are 60 children ranging in age from six to sixteen years who are members of the junior organization. They have their own room for services, which are of 30 minutes' duration, and have their own officers. The plan was put into operation in January and Doctor Sichterman is so pleased with the results that he expects soon to double the membership.

Doctor Sichterman said the idea of forming a junior church developed from his experience in church while a boy.

"My people came from Holland and settled in a neighborhood of Hollanders in a small Michigan town," he said. "The church I attended as a boy also used the Dutch language and the sermons sometimes lasted two hours or more. I well remember how tired and restless I would get as the time dragged on, for the sermon, while appealing to adults, was not such as would appeal to the child."

"It was this experience which gave birth to the junior church idea, and last January I started the organization."

Have Natural Food Supply.

In the plantless depths of the ocean the denizens largely depend for their food supply upon the ceaseless rain of dead animalcules which sink through the miles of dark, cold water.

Father Love vs. Mother's.

Among some fishes the male assumes all the care and anxiety of parenthood. And this is true of at least one or two families of birds. The male ostrich hatches the eggs and looks after the little ones. The greatest enemy of the eggs and young of the stickleback fish is the mother herself. She not only has no affection for them whatever, but would eat every one of them if she weren't prevented from doing so by the father. In very few species of fish do the females care anything for either the eggs or the young.

Among fishes, therefore, the instinct to save the young is not the wonderful mother instinct found in the human or other higher species, but the father instinct.—Detroit News.
